2006 busy year for Community Relations

Compiled by Community Relations
Marine Corps Base Hawaii

Each year, U.S. Pacific Command coordinates military support for recurring community relations events in Hawaii and delegates that support to its component commands. As detailed planning continues, components task support to installations. All support is provided in accordance with Department of Defense and service regulations. Camp H.M. Smith and Kaneohe Bay Marines regularly participate in such USPA-COM-directed events and other MCB Hawaii-specific events, as directed by the commanding general. Ceremonial support is provided per Base Bulletin 5060. The following is a review of the support coordinated during calendar year 2006.

The relationship Marine Corps Base Hawaii continues to enjoy with local communities, groups and individuals was evident as 2006 unfolded.

Supported events included conferences, ceremonies, parades, youth activities, K-12 school functions, cultural commemorations, speaking engagements, speakers, career days, Special Olympics competitions, and various holiday celebrations.

Community members came aboard MCB Hawaii, Kaneohe Bay to use base facilities, hold youth leadership camps, visit for part of a day, meet to discuss issues of mutual interest, celebrate the history and culture of Mokapu Peninsula, take part in sporting events, go to school, and attend various church, commemorative and memorial services. These community members also volunteered to help eradicate invasive species, plant native foliage, and repair wildlife habitats.

In what has become an annual highlight, a group of Hawaiian families, connected by hereditary and cultural ties to Mokapu Peninsula, came aboard the base in early March to celebrate the closing of the Makahiki season. For the third consecutive year, native Hawaiian paddlers landed canoes aboard base, after crossing Kaneohe Bay from Kuoloa Beach Park. Participants wore traditional clothing and sung and chanted formal greetings in the Hawaiian language. As the paddlers came ashore, conch shells were blown. Also during the ceremony, traditional gifts were offered at a temporary altar and traditional foods were prepared and served.

Hawaiian historians sat in the shade “talking story” to a rapt audience. Several leaders within the group stayed that night and the next on base, finalizing their celebration with a ceremony at nearby Pyramid Rock Beach or, as they call it, “Kauu.”

In November 2006, MCB Hawaii ComRel also coordinated the opening ceremonies on base for this same group for the current Makahiki season, which will close March 2007.

Marines supported the annual ANZAC ceremony at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific – Punchbowl, opened Hawaii Military Appreciation Month in April 2006, and participated in additional events and in Memorial Day commemorations the following month.

July’s highlights were BayFest 2006, the annual Fourth of July parade in Kailua, and the Castle High School Marine Corps Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps

Leadership Academy, which draws cadets from Hawaii and throughout the nation.

Community Relations also coordinated base facilities use for local and visiting JROTC cadets, who came aboard in the spring or fall to conduct training or to conduct an orientation visit to Hawaii.

November support coordination highlighted the Makahiki opening ceremonies, Veterans Day commemorations and the visit of Korean War veterans, who attended the annual Marine Corps Birthday Pageant at Dewey Square. Other attendees to the event included 60 Castle High School MCJROTC cadets, several members of the Aloha Chapter of the Chosin Few, student groups from local public schools, and 34 Young Marines and their chaperones from Temecula Valley, Calif., who also conducted Library of Congress interviews with the veterans.

Special Olympics Hawaii held its annual Holiday Classic Games aboard MCB Hawaii, Kaneohe Bay and Hickam Air Force Base, December 1 to 3, with 750 competing athletes, 250 coaches, and more than 800 volunteers. Marines also supported two Windward Oahu Christmas parades in Kaneohe and Waimanalo.

Community Relations helped coordinate support for a number of events that were held at several Oahu locations, December 2 through 7, to commemorate the 65th anniversary of the attacks on Kaneohe Bay and Pearl Harbor. The staff also coordinated all support for Patrol Squadron 11 and Kaneohe Klippers Association ceremonies held on base to honor those killed here during the attacks at what was then Naval Air Station, Kaneohe Bay. Several veterans also visited the base, including retired Navy Lt. John W. Finn, 97, who earned the Medal of Honor for his heroic deeds at NAS, Kaneohe Bay on Dec. 7, 1941. Finn's award was one of 15 awarded to service

The reality and impact of real-world missions and deployments – families left behind without a sponsor, sponsors far away and unavailable to help with life’s daily issues, extended families fearing the worst and hoping for the best – affected not only the MCB Hawaii community but also civilian residents of communities throughout Hawaii. The effects continue to resonate within local schools and churches, touching all age groups and every social setting.

Deployments of Hawaii-based Marines and Sailors during 2006, in support of Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom, resulted in a number of casualties. The year witnessed multiple return celebrations and memorial services for those lost. The community response continued to be strong and positive. Throughout the year, MCB Hawaii ComRel received calls from elected officials, local business and civic groups, school students, teachers and administrators, and neighbors offering to help support the troops and their families.

Vice Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Robert F. Willard presents Medal of Honor recipient retired Navy Lt. John Finn with a newly created Medal of Honor Flag during a turn-around cruise aboard USS Constitution. As an Aviation Ordnanceman, Finn was assigned to Naval Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, on the morning of Dec. 7, 1941. Finn was awarded the Medal of Honor for extraordinary heroism in manning a .50-cal machine gun and fending off the attacks of Japanese warplanes. The Medal of Honor is our country's highest military honor, awarded for acts of valor above and beyond the call of duty.
